INTERNATIONAL ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBITION

WISWAKHARMAN EXPO 2022

“The Breath of All Living”

Indonesia has a prominent role as the world's lungs, with more than 25,000 types of flora and 200,000 species of fauna. But it can't be denied that human civilization always strives to create and build results in a rise of the carbon footprint created as a side product of said construction phases. It is also given that the number of forests and green areas keeps decreasing, destroying the habitat of plants and animals. Finally, a phenomenon known as synanthropization has occurred, where animals seek refuge in the city for a place to live. Architecture is the answer to giving birth to a 'home' for humans, animals, and plants to coexist comfortably.
